Dear Ed & Frank:

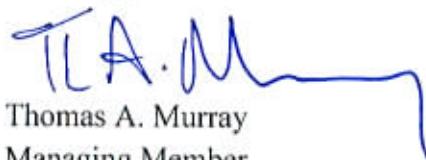

The formation of your new firm earlier this year should have made the local land use community snap to attention.

You both have an exceptional understanding of land use law. The value you have both brought to CWS telecommunications' applications goes well beyond a simple familiarity with the law though. It is your mastery of the intangibles—the nuances of each locality, the direction of the current political winds, the recent flow of similar cases and the docket of cases in the cue—that creates the value for CWS. This experience ensures the necessary votes of approval on the CWS telecom applications.

When selecting counsel for navigating a land use case through sometimes treacherous channels, an applicant is well advised to choose the Donohue & Stearns team.

I have appreciated your counsel over the past dozen or so years, and I look forward to your collective guidance from the new practice.

Sincerely,

Thomas A. Murray
